Why do you need it

I get it – in the hustle and bustle of everyday life, finding just five minutes for yourself can feel like an impossible feat.

As women, especially mothers, we care about everyone else more than ourselves.

Which is why we need and deserve rest. Why? Because your child, your loved ones and the world need a happy woman.

You will come back with a new perspective, you will strengthen your body and reawaken your true dreams, and after your return you will feel full of power and new ideas.

About us

Hey, I'm Agnieszka, but you can call me Aga. Originally from Warsaw, Poland, I now call Zurich, Switzerland home.

I've always been fascinated by human behavior and the stories that shape us. My travels through South America taught me the importance of embracing life's journey and surrendering to the unknown.

But it was motherhood that truly ignited my passion for empowerment. Through workshops, retreats, and meaningful conversations, I strive to create spaces where women can reclaim their voices and rediscover the power within themselves.

About us

Hi, My name is Gosia Pikor, I'm a yoga teacher specialised in Hatha, Vinyasa, and Yin Yoga, with a focus on creating enjoyable movement experiences.

I like using myofascial massage balls in my classes to help relax and ease tension. For me, the combination of self massage and mindful movement practice represents a balance of opposing elements (Yin and Yang), is where the magic lies in nurturing a healthy and strong body.

I firmly believe in yoga's transformative potential, both on and off the mat.
